

UNH Fairchild Dairy Teaching and Research Center

36 O'Kane Road, Durham, 10am – 4pm

- Modeled after a typical New England Dairy operation to ensure that new research and management expertise is directly applicable to many state and regional stakeholders, the Fairchild Research Dairy houses approximately 160 cows and supports agricultural animal research at the NH Agricultural Experiment Station. Come visit the dairy and learn more about how a sustainable New Hampshire dairy operates.

UNH Woodman Horticultural Research Farm

70 Spinney Lane, Durham 10am – 1pm, Tour at 11am

- Ever wonder how new crops are created and how New Hampshire farmers choose the right variety to plant? The Woodman Research Farm is where UNH scientists develop and test new fruit, vegetables, and ornamental crop varieties; assess alternative crop management techniques; study the impacts and best strategies for protecting against pests and diseases; and work on organic production. Come explore the fun, try out the scavenger hunt, hear from some of the researchers and learn something new about eggplants, buckwheat, kiwiberries, grapes, strawberries and even broomcorn!
