Re: Proposed Mill Plaza Redevelopment Project

As homeowners and year-round residents of Durham, we are dismayed by the proposed design for the redevelopment of Mill Plaza. As the thoughtful 2008 Mill Plaza Study demonstrates, many opportunities exist to increase the commercial activity of the plaza while at the same time activating the space and serving the broader community by addressing current shortcomings of both our downtown and the current plaza configuration. We recognize the critical need for continued development in our downtown, and we submit that such development must own up to its civic responsibility.

The following is a short list of things we believe should be incorporated in the redesign of Mill Plaza that are conspicuously absent in this current proposal:

1. Community space – We strongly agree with the statement from the 2008 Mill Plaza Study that "A redeveloped Plaza property should serve as a 'Village Center' that stands as an example for future downtown development and provides residents a 'sense of place'. By this we mean year-round community space – indoor and outdoor areas where people linger to meet and talk to their friends, shop, and enjoy all of the seasons." In contrast to this recommendation, the proposed plan cuts out the little green space that currently exists, creates no new pedestrian space, and provides no civic gathering space.

Because of a lack of civic space in our downtown, we are a community that assembles in the median of our main street for town events. One of the only outdoor gathering places for families is Kaleidascoop, a destination that is for all intents and purposes in a shadeless parking lot. We are a town in desperate need of a Village Center, and the logical site for such a center is Mill Plaza.

Commercial development and the creation of civic spaces are not mutually exclusive pursuits; examples of this abound (see Project for Public Spaces website http://www.pps.org/). The 2008 Mill Plaza Study itself offers numerous examples of ways in which simple design features like pedestrian plazas, walkways, seating, fountains, green spaces, small play areas, etc. can enhance the commercial aspects of development while serving important community needs.

2. Mixed use - We'd like to see mixed-use development that is not just a euphemism for more student housing. While we agree that our town needs a more diverse and expanded tax base, we are concerned about the pending glut of student housing. We also sympathize with abutters about the likely quality of life impacts of living next door to a large student housing complex. For us, mixed use means mixed commercial activity, flexible civic space, and housing for families, workers, seniors, low-income residents, etc.

- 3. Connectivity Almost all of the designs that came out of the 2008 Mill Plaza Study concluded that connecting Mill Plaza more strongly with Main Street (physically and architecturally) was an important design feature both for enhancing the commercial core as well as contributing to a visually cohesive downtown. Such connectivity is absent in the current proposal. We would like to see not only increased access to Main Street but also enhanced pedestrian and bike paths along the brook with linkages to residential neighborhoods and UNH.
- 4. De-emphasize the parking lot Vibrant community space doesn't happen on the edges of parking lots. Durham needs a Mill Plaza that is not primarily a paved lot (as it is now) but rather a dynamic mixed-use space that also provides adequate parking. Again, the 2008 Mill Plaza Study contains numerous examples for how to do that: below-ground parking, separate parking structures, peripheral parking. The proposed plan not only maintains the parking lot mentality of the current plaza but relies on an exemption of 428 parking spaces that then fall on the rest of the downtown to provide.
- 5. Protect and enhance College Brook Echoing the recommendation of the 2008 Mill Plaza Study, "the redevelopment should work to protect and restore the brook and its buffer's natural functions on the site. This would add value to the Plaza, reassure residential neighbors, and set an example for good environmental stewardship." The current proposal does not appear to take this recommendation into consideration. Opportunities to protect and restore the brook go hand-in-hand with some of the design issues highlighted above, such as placement of green spaces and buffers, location of parking, surfacing materials, etc. There is a wealth of experience and expertise at UNH that could be tapped to assist in this aspect of the plaza design.

Despite our criticism of this particular proposal, we are wholeheartedly in favor of redeveloping Mill Plaza in a way that enhances our community. We sincerely appreciate the effort that went into the 2008 Mill Plaza Study and feel that any redevelopment plan should honor those findings.
